PCN & Churches

Helping churches to share a progressive Christian faith

Do you and others in your church wish to develop a fresh vision of faith?

Do you value critical thought in how we understand the Bible?

Is the worship in your church engaging and transformative?

www.pcnbritain.org.uk

Are you less concerned about the dogma of creeds and the uniformity of belief, and more passionate about living the kind of life as seen in Jesus?

Churches today are facing many challenges: advances in medicine, science and technology raise serious questions about religious belief in our contemporary world. Changes in society affect issues around personal morality and relationships. People continue to suffer from violence, injustice and inequality. We face significant environmental challenges. These issues raise big questions about God and faith.

Yet the life and teachings of Jesus offer hope and guidance in the search for meaning and love. Many churches are seeking a new vision and understanding of Christianity which does not try to escape from the challenges of the modern world but embraces new insights which make sense to people today.

How may PCN help your church?

PCN Britain is a growing network of people, many of whom belong to different church denominations and who seek to share an open and progressive understanding of faith.

We are part of a global progressive movement that believes that the Christian faith needs to be expressed afresh. This faith must lead to action to promote peace and justice in our world.
